Placemaking for Councillors and Elected Representatives in Local Governments

"It's not about governments trying to do things for communities, it's about communities trying to do things for themselves; councils are a great intermediary to help facilitate that process."

Municipal Association of Victoria

We all want to see places thrive, community members to connect, our local businesses resilient and strong and our environment cared for. Placemaking provides a practical, cost-effective and implementable approach that can be tailored for each local area.

It is a fresh approach to timeless ideas – not a new fad! It incorporates timeless ideas of contributing to community and civic improvement.
